Team McCain,

This week our campaign is promoting John McCain's long-term commitment to providing market-based solutions to climate change and highlighting ways we can all protect our environment. We're also taking this week to launch a new section of our store - complete with eco-friendly items.

In our new store section, we're proud to offer eco-friendly t-shirts and polo shirts made from biodegradable fabric, as well as organic cotton hats and shopping bags. You can also buy travel mugs and notebooks made from recycled materials. Please show your support for John McCain by purchasing these items (or any other store item) by following this link.

Our campaign believes we can each do our part to protect the environment. You can take action today by visiting the eco-friendly section of our store. Please take the time today to visit the campaign's official store to purchase your eco-friendly McCain gear and encourage your friends, family and colleagues to do the same. Also, click here to see a new section of JohnMcCain.com that lays out John McCain's plan to combat climate change by establishing a market-based system to curb greenhouse gas (GHG) emissions, mobilize innovative technologies, and strengthen the economy.

Thank you,

Rick Davis
Campaign Manager

P.S. Please take the a few minutes today to visit our new eco-friendly section of the official John McCain 2008 store. You'll find environmentally friendly gear - everything from t-shirts to shopping bags - to show your support for John McCain. Please visit the store today!
