Subject: Running Out of Time!

Dear Friends,

I entered the race for Congress because our district deserves an advocate who will fight for us every day, a leader on the issues that impact our daily lives, and a partner for our communities. Our incumbent Congressman, Stephen Lynch, has let us down.

While the incumbent has shuttled between taking votes in Washington (like his vote opposing health care reform) and scheduling photo opportunities in the district, I have been going door to door actually talking to voters, hearing their concerns, and discussing with them what we see as the future of our communities and our country. The more voters I talk to, the more I keep hearing the same story: people want leadership, people want change, and people want a Congressman who will show up not only to vote but also to fight on their behalf. I pledge that I will fight for working families, for consumers, for taxpayers – for you – every single day that I serve in Congress.

Before I can fight for you in Congress, I need your help! TODAY, Wednesday, is the critical quarterly fundraising deadline! Contribute to my campaign for United States Congress right now and send a clear message today that you want a Congressman whose singular purpose in government will be to fight for you.

The choice in this primary is clear: an entrenched career politician working to maintain the status quo or someone who will fight for us every single day to bring about positive change on the issues we care about. Your contribution today will help make that choice clear to voters across the district.

With the deadline at midnight tonight, I hope I can count on you,
Mac D'Alessandro

P.S. In addition to making a contribution today, I ask that you forward this e-mail to your friends, family, and neighbors right now. Encourage them to contribute, join the Facebook group, and follow the Twitter feed, and you will expand your impact exponentially.
